

It has come to my attention that the Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) is challenging Indiana's Telephone Privacy law, to which I wish to offer my opinion.

From a pragmatic perspective, keeping in mind the best interests of ALL of the citizens of the state of Indiana and not just a favored few, it would be a miscarriage of justice to allow this challenge to proceed. It would be grossly unfair to allow a special interest group (the CBA) to place their self interests above those of the masses of this state. Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has been working exceptionally well for its citizens since its inception and should be left intact.

I do not want anyone, with whom I currently have a business relationship with, to be allowed to call me as often as they desire. This is NOT, in my opinion, in the best interests of the community, for the betterment of society, or certainly not in the best interests of myself and my family.

I urge you to reject this challenge with clarity and with immediacy.
